Campfire

Saturday was the 75th birthday of Campfire. About 75 members were on the Wilmington Common as a part of the national celebration. Part of the fun was a balloon launch. Shown here is Keri Lyman having her face decorated by Debbie Ehrenberg.

Special town meeting to consider land sales halt

A special town meeting will be held immediately before the annual town meeting on April 27, primarily to put a hold on all forms of town owned land sales.

Voters will be asked to approve a three year moratorium on the sale of such land until the Board of Assessors and the Planning Board conclude an inventory of all town-owned land and the Bylaw Study Committee has a chance to develop a new bylaw on the method of selling such land. One possibility is to sell it solely through town meeting and public auction, to generate extra funds for the town.

If the moratorium is approved, this will negate all town-owned land sales on the annual town meeting warrant that same day.

Also on that warrant is a budget item to transfer sums of money for the operation of various town departments.

Police chief refutes crime survey

by Arlene Surprenant

Police Chief Bobby Stewart had some terse comments to make to Dennis Volpe at Tuesday's fincom meeting, regarding a recent Boston Magazine survey.

This survey, publicized in the Town Crier's March 6 issue, ranked Wilmington 109 out of a possible 140 towns in suburb safety. This placed Wilmington in a higher than average crime category.

Since the article appeared, Stewart has been treated to some "disturbing and unpleasant comments."

As a friend from Billerica told him, "there are three kinds of lies: lies, damn lies, and statistics."

Stewart claims you cannot compare communities with different populations, as Boston Magazine did, or trust statistics.

The survey, he said, in answer to Volpe's query on the article, creates a Catch-22 situation where every time you make an arrest, you create a statistic. In effect, it penalizes the Wilmington police force for effectively enforcing the law, he said. The smaller, relatively crime-free communities listed may not have the police power or the determination of Wilmington's police department to make an all-out effort to stop crime, Stewart said.

"We have made a greater effort than some of the towns around us," he stressed. Wilmington also has greater case loads than nearby towns in the Woburn court district, he said.

According to Stewart, the survey did not take into account the fact that Wilmington is an industrial community, which may have some impact on the crime rate.

And finally, he said, the year the survey was taken, Wilmington police doubled their narcotics arrests so a big increase was evident.

One point made by Boston Magazine with which Stewart did agree was the fact that proximity to major interstate highways plays a definite part in a higher crime rate.

School Department unveils $9.7 million budget

by Arlene Surprenant

A bottom line school budget of $9,719,172 for the 1985-86 school year was presented by School Committee Chairman Bridget Zukas and several members of the Central Office to fincom members Tuesday night for their evaluation and approval.

This figure represents a 7.4 percent increase over last year's budget.

It includes the sum of $8,715,798 for fixed costs and $1,003,374 for instructional costs. It also represents a seven percent increase in the total salary budget and $113,000 over last year's transportation budget.

What the $9.7 million figure does not include is a $119,240 maximum figure (or $49,440 minimum figure) for extra renovation expenses and $75,000 in capital expenses, brought to voters for their approval in Articles 8 and 9 on the annual town meeting warrant.

According to Zukas, because of lack of a quorum due to illness, several school committee meetings had to be cancelled, forcing postponement of a decision on high school space options for next year. Because of this postponement, Zukas couldn't project a final budget figure, incorporating such extra renovation costs as transportation expenses, portable classroom and lab costs, and the possibility of hiring two extra assistant principals.

Finance Committee Chairman Dennis Volpe proclaimed himself "a little bit distressed...that the budget is so fluid at this point in time." He stressed his committee has to approve a budget that falls within the constraints of Proposition 2½ and, without definite figures, fincom members may not be able to make a recommendation at town meeting.

Zukas assured Volpe she would have a final figure after the April 3 meeting.

The capital outlay warrant items next came under fire.

The reasoning behind presenting capital outlay figures as separate articles—something which hasn't been done in the past—was explained by Assistant Superintendent

Robert Horan.

According to Horan, "80 percent of our equipment is in poor condition" and needs to be replaced. This includes such items as a new copying machine, musical instruments, computers, typewriters, athletic equipment, and classroom equipment. The school committee decided to go to the voters to approve any extras, above the necessary day to day equipment covered in the bottom line budget figure.

They pursued this route, added Zukas, to "allay some of our discomfort."

According to Fincom member James Carroll, there is some feeling that creating two warrant articles for capital expenses may be construed as a "tactic" to fragment the budget so the "full cost is not there for the town to deal with," a fear Zukas and the other school representatives attempted to put to rest.

Fincom members seemed to want one round figure encompassing the total costs of the whole renovation project, something Zukas could not provide.

The fiscal responsibilities of the Permanent Building Committee and the school committee differ in regard to the renovation costs, Zukas said. Her committee has to deal with the needs of students and staff, not the physical aspect of the project.

Volpe and other committee members felt the public should know all the costs incurred by the high school renovation as well as the school budget projection.

Maybe, he said, we should "put them all in one bucket" and take them to town meeting as a bond issue.

Car thieves, for instance, could easily "duck" off Route 93, steal a car, and be back on the highway in a matter of minutes, he said. All told, a thief may spend 15 minutes in Wilmington and we could have a "crime that exceeds $1,000," Stewart said.

Even though residents derive benefits from quick access to major highways, he concluded, they also "pay a price."

Sewer costs may increase 42 percent

A hint of the increased costs to Wilmington sewer department users, in the future, is contained in a story in the Reading Chronicle March 25.

Reading and Wilmington have the same type of service. Each town provides its own water, and each town has sewers which are a part of the Metropolitan Sewer System (MDC).

A recent vote of the Massachusetts legislature established a Massachusetts Water Resources authority (MWRA). This was after problems relating to water usage and water mis-usage had been prominent in the Boston newspapers for several months.

Anthony V. Fletcher, the superintendent of public works of Reading is one of half a dozen persons appointed to be a director of the new authority. He is thus aware of the changes being made, and, he says, the MWRA is doing business without the help of the state subsidies which kept the MDC afloat over the years. Charges for use, and for improvement, are to be made directly to the communities involved.

In the next five years, the Chronicle told the people of Reading, payments for sewer services will double. And, on top of that, in 1991, the payments will soar as the communities become liable for the cost of cleaning up Boston harbor and supporting a water distribution system, and sewer system. Both the state and federal governments have been subsidizing the systems over the years.

Wilmington's new costs have not yet been computed, but in Reading, for 1986, according to Fletcher, the user fees will increase by $93,930. That is an increase of 42.4 percent.

As a guess, the user charge to the average home which has sewer service in Wilmington is in the neighborhood of $20 to $25 a quarter. That could be as much as $100 a year.

Forty-two percent more could make the cost $142, for 1986.

Private school bus route cost increase funded

Tewksbury School Committee members voted unanimously last week to supplement a private school bus contract because of an increase in the number of students using the service.

The committee voted last Wednesday to add some $3,440 to a contract that provides bus service for Tewksbury students attending St. Augustine's School in Andover. The rate works out to an additional $10 per bus per day, retroactive to the beginning of the school year.

The committee also voted, on a motion by Committee member Sonja Cuneo, to add the new position of Director of Health Education to the budget for fiscal year 1986. The new position, according to the committee, would be a step toward providing students in grades K through 12 with more nutrition and general health education as well as information on the dangers of use and abuse of drugs and alcohol.

On the busing decision, the committee voted to supplement the contract after learning that the buses serving St. Augustine's have had to make additional stops not called for when the routes were set up earlier this year.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools for Business John Ryan said the action was necessary because of the many additional stops which had been added this year to accommodate an increase of approximately 40 students being transported there.

St. Augustine's is served by a direct bus route, unlike many of the other private schools that Tewksbury provides bus transportation to.

Normally, students attending private schools which receive bus transportation are picked up by buses running general neighborhood routes. They are brought to a central location where all general routes terminate.

At that central location, students exit the buses and are arranged according to the schools they attend. They then are boarded onto the bus that will take them to their school. The procedure is reversed in the afternoon.

However, because the St. Augustine's school day starts some 30 to 40 minutes later than other private schools, the school committee voted in 1983 to provide exclusive bus routes for that school. With the exclusive route, St. Augustine's students are picked up at designated stops and are brought directly to the school.

Placing St. Augustine's students under the general private school busing plan would have meant the students would be waiting in St. Augustine's school yard some 30 to 40 minutes before the school opened.

"Last year we started busing 60 youngsters to St. Augustine's," Ryan said. "Now we are up to 100 or so, but we still have the same two buses."

"Things got a little out of hand," said Ryan, who explained that with the additional 40 students the number of stops mushroomed from 12 to 50.

Ryan said that the contractor had originally requested an increase of $20 per bus per day, or a total of $7,200 for the school year.

"I suggested $10 a day, or $3,440. I think it is fair. He did also," said Ryan.

"Would it pay to reorganize this whole program and have parents take their kids to public schools for pick up," asked School Committee Member Sonja Cuneo.

"We thought about that, but it wouldn't work," explained Ryan. Apart from the problem of increased traffic at the public schools, he said, was the likelihood that private school students would attempt to ride public school buses to their pick up points and thereby require the school committee to add extra public school buses.

In the new budget, Ryan said, he is proposing a third route to serve St. Augustine's.

"We can't handle 102 youngsters in two routes, north and south," he said.

In other business, the committee placed a February, 1985 letter from Tewksbury Teachers' Association President Sheila Walsh on the agenda for the next "regular" meeting.

That letter was sent to the school committee in response to its handling of an incident involving an assembly at the Shawsheen School. The incident at the Shawsheen School brought up the question of the role of teachers during an assembly. Apparently, some parents had to take over student supervisory roles when some teachers left an assembly at the school during December last year.

The school committee looked into the situation in response to parental complaints and Walsh's letter was in response to the way the committee handled the situation. However, the letter had not been "logged" into the committee's official correspondence file until last week, Chairman Louis Carciofi said.

The committee also heard a report read by Ryan on the successful resolution of an odor problem in the boys' restrooms at the Shawsheen and North Street Schools.

After implementing several corrective measures at both schools, Ryan said, he made some unannounced visits to both schools and was unable to detect any odors.

"The whole school is spotless this year," commented one parent about the Shawsheen School. "A nice job," she said.

I used to have everything to lose. Now I have everything to gain.

I look better!
I feel better!
I'm more alert, more energetic
I have a new confidence that comes from doing something good for myself.
I lost the weight I wanted to without drugs, crash diets, or special foods.
And I've gained the knowledge and support I need to keep up the good work.
I was looking for a healthy way to lose weight.
Now that I've found it, I know it will stay with me for the rest of my life.

Three hurt in head-on crash

Lindsay Bouvier lives at the corner of Shady Lane Drive and Middlesex Avenue in Wilmington. There are more than a few accidents at that corner, and generally the Bouvier fence is, in the parlance of one observer, "destroyed again."

That did not happen last Saturday, at 15 minutes to midnight. There was an accident, but the Bouvier fence was unharmed. It is still standing.

The accident sent three persons to the hospital.

Michael J. Holmes of 4 Kidder Place, Wilmington, was driving a 1978 Pontiac. Peter Mullarkey of Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington was driving a 1978 Chevrolet. The two cars met head on, and both front ends were totaled.

Stephen J. Daly, 8 Allen Park Drive, Wilmington, a passenger in the Mullarkey car was taken to Massachusetts General Hospital. Peter Mullarkey, the driver, and Mary Krasznekevich of 1A State Street, Wilmington, were taken to the Regional Health Center in Wilmington for treatment of injuries.

Condos, water treatment plant on town meeting warrant

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington residents are once again called on to participate in that annual spring rite, town meeting, held this year on Saturday, April 27, in the high school gymnasium at 1:30 p.m.
This year, a total of 54 articles will come under consideration, including the FY 1986 Town Budget and 15 articles for the sale of town owned land. Selectmen hope to negate these sales through special town meeting action prior to the annual meeting.

Several articles stand out because of their effect on a majority of town citizens.

Article 38 seeks to rezone 53 acres of land by the former Roberts mansion off Burlington Avenue from Residence 20 (R20) to Planned Residential Development (PRD). This would allow Builder James DeCarolis the opportunity to go ahead with plans to build a 111 unit condominium development on the property, the second such proposal to come before a town meeting in as many months.

The plans are being prepared by Andover engineer Steven Stapinski and limit any building from being closer than 100 feet from the boundary of the Roberts Estate. Each unit would sell for $120,000.

Recently, DeCarolis appeared before the Water and Sewer Commission with an offer to construct a sewer main from the condo project to the interceptor at his own expense. Plans for the sewer main have not been submitted as yet. DeCarolis told the commissioners he is waiting for the outcome of the town meeting.

Article 36 asks voters to rescind the PRD Zoning passed at town meeting in May, 1983, and completely reverse that decision.

According to Robert Fasulo and his wife Linda, who placed the article on the warrant, the town "deserves a second shot at it (PRD zoning)."

"I like Wilmington," said Fasulo, but he pointed out that residents need foresight now so future generations can enjoy the Wilmington he knows today. He also questions whether residents will learn a lesson from nearby towns which seem to be "overrun" by condominiums and townhouses.

Says Linda, "I don't think town officials look at the over-all picture." They should realize, she says, how these "large developments" adversely affect the small homeowner with regard to water problems, traffic, encroaching on wetlands, and safety factors.

No matter where you go there are problems, she adds, and developments only compound these problems and affect the whole town, not just one neighborhood.

The Fasulos, instrumental in helping defeat the town's first condo proposal at special town meeting, now hope residents will speak out once again.

If both Articles 38 and 36 pass, it would be up to the Attorney General to make a final decision, said Fasulo.

Through Article 24, the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority (WRA) seeks to amend a 1966 article, limiting the authority's power to Jewell Industrial Park, and to extend the jurisdiction of the WRA.

According to Chairman Jay Donovan, the WRA hopes to take under its jurisdiction for improvement purposes the area contiguous to and bordering on Route 38 beginning at the Woburn town line and running to the Tewksbury town line, including Wilmington Town Center. It would also concentrate on Route 129 from Reading to Rocco's Restaurant on Route 38.

With town meeting approval, the WRA could set up a Commercial Area Revitalization District (CARD) and become eligible for Industrial Revenue Bonds. It could also look into the formation of an historical district and beautify the town center area, along the lines of what's been done in Lexington, all at no cost to Wilmington.

The WRA would offer below prime rate loans to local businesses wishing to improve the physical appearance of their buildings and undertake all improvements with its own funds or available state grants.

Article 11, initiated by Selectman Robert Cain in response to past discriminatory practices by the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD), asks town residents to approve a light department study and the sum of $15,000 to offset the cost of the same.

This study would look into the feasibility of establishing Wilmington's own municipal light department, enter into a district light department with other communities, or contract to purchase electricity from some other source.

Article 26 would allow the Wilmington Memorial Library the opportunity to join the Merrimack Valley Library Consortium, a computer-based network of public libraries from 13 communities located in Andover.

According to Library Director Philip Meriam, joining the consortium would "give us public access to a network where we're pooling strengths." These strengths would include "instant availability" of books and materials not readily accessible in Wilmington, more efficient use of staff time, and faster service to the public. Wilmington residents would be issued new library cards which could be used in any of the 13 consortium communities, including North Reading, North Andover, Chelmsford, and Billerica. One future goal is eventual networking with the Wilmington school libraries, providing an educational advantage.

One drawback to the consortium is the cost. Although library trustees look toward a phased-in approach over a period of three years, the initial cost of equipment and services to hook up with the computer would be $80,000, with additional smaller costs in later years covering conversion, membership, maintenance costs and the purchase of Public Access Catalogues.

Though Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski recommends holding off joining the consortium until next year, Meriam is not sure that's a good idea.

"There will always be something (else)," he said. And since the trustees have been trying to join the consortium since its inception in 1982, he feels "this is an issue that ought to be resolved by town meeting."

Article 19 asks voters to approve funding for a new water treatment plant to service the North Wilmington area and improve water quality in that part of town.

The Water and Sewer Commission, which is responsible for the article, plans to construct a plant at the Barrows Field Station site. Weston and Sampson Engineers Inc. will plan the new station along the lines of the purification plant at Butters Row. Estimates place the cost close to $6 million, though commissioners hope for 50 percent reimbursement of eligible costs from the state.

Four other articles may be of interest to a number of citizens.

Article 25, a petition article submitted by Larry Curtis of Access is Mandatory (AIM), asks residents to agree to the formation of a Handicapped Commission and the sum of $500 to provide clerical services and office supplies for that committee.

A Handicapped Commission would coordinate efforts with the Office of Handicapped Affairs to carry out programs designed to meet the needs of Wilmington's handicapped citizens. It would consist of seven members appointed by Town Manager, each serving for periods of one, two or three years.

Article 27 asks residents to deposit $39,000 into the Council on Aging's Revolving Account. This is the sum needed to complete the remodeling of the Buzzell School for use as a Multi-Purpose Senior Center.

Article 31, a petition article submitted by Gerald O'Reilly, instructs selectmen to "beautify and maintain" the former Hale Icehouse property by Silver Lake. It also proposes to leave that land free for recreational use and to conserve that land forever.

Article 39 asks for town action to have selectmen turn over the South School on Chestnut Street to the Wilmington Housing Authority (WHA) to be used as a possible scattered site home under Chapter 705.

According to WHA member Dan Gillis, who wrote up the article, the building would be used as added "insurance" only if needed. If not used, the building would revert back to the town within two years.

North Reading hedges on light board squabble

The North Reading Board of Selectmen has voted to reconsider its decision to join with the Wilmington selectmen and the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, in the co-petition to the State Department of Public Utilities, so the North Reading Transcript reported Thursday, March 21.

The reconsideration is being described as a "good will gesture" toward the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD). The North Reading selectmen and the commissioners of the RMLD have an April 3 meeting scheduled. The town manager (town administrator) of North Reading was, at least partly, the source of the Transcript story.

Chet Spinney, the town administrator, was quoted as saying that he had talked with Norbert Rhinerson and Chairman John Crocker of the RMLD, and had assured them that he would not pursue the petition if progress is made at the joint meeting. He added that if the selectmen did not withdraw from the petition, the RMLD would probably refuse to meet with the selectmen.

The April 3 meeting with the RMLD, Spinney said, will discuss a variety of topics. Included in these would be the overall impact of the RMLD investment in the Seabrook, New Hampshire nuclear power plant; the question of voluntary payments in lieu of taxes, which RMLD has suspended; the existence of a so-called special rate of Reading municipal buildings; and the possibility of better communication in the future.

Spinney, the Transcript said, went so far as to suggest that the Chamber's petition was a ruse by the Wilmington Chamber to block any meetings between the RMLD Board and the individual towns of North Reading, Lynnfield and Wilmington. Spinney suggested that it was in the Chamber's best interest that the towns remain at loggerheads with the RMLD.

Spinney felt that the town had a "very limited, practically nil" chance of gaining representation on the RMLD board. It would require an act of the state legislature to do this, but he added, with better communication with the RMLD, the town would be kept informed of the RMLD actions.

The selectmen's action was on a motion of Selectman Neil Franson, seconded by Ernest Doucette. The motion was to reconsider and table their vote of February 28 in joining the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce as co-petitioner before the (Mass.) DPU.

Franson had in the past questioned the wisdom of North Reading being too closely associated with the Wilmington Chamber. He was reported as saying that the RMLD had made a "magnanimous" gesture to meet with the selectmen.

"I can see their point," he said. "I wouldn't want to meet with them if they were suing us."

Selectman Nick O'Brien, who has at times attended meetings in Wilmington, voted in opposition to the motion to reconsider support of the petition. But he voted with the other selectmen to lay it on the table following the outcome of the joint meeting.

One of his comments was that if the selectmen were not satisfied with the outcome of the meeting with the RMLD, they could always resume the DPU petition.

Water treatment plant would replace pumping station

Preliminary estimates by Leo Peters and Alan Silbowicz, design engineers for the Wilmington Water and Sewer Commissioners, have led to a conclusion that the proposed purification station, to be built in the Barrows Well Field, will be smaller than that of Butters Row. The estimate is that the new station will be smaller by about 1,000 square feet.

The new treatment plant will be about 8,200 square feet in area, to be built of cement blocks and bricks, backed by steel.

The present Barrows pumping station will be dismantled in the

Other items

This paper reported on March 13 of the meeting held on March 8 by the three managers of the three towns other than Reading, with the Municipal Light Department of Reading. The meeting was with the chairman of the board, Mr. Crocker, and Norbert Rhinerson, general manager.

Unknown to this paper another person was at that meeting, quite, it seems, by accident. That person is State Senator Bob Buell. So Buell has told the Town Crier.

Buell called at the office of the RMLD to discuss an entirely different subject. Somehow he was a part of the conversation. He had, he reports, absolutely no prior knowledge of the meeting.

The items that Wilmington's Town Manager, Buzz Stapczynski, wanted to discuss at that meeting, questions about the impact of Seabrook on the Reading Municipal Light, and of payments to towns in lieu of taxes, were not discussed. So Stapczynski told the Town Crier.

It can be noted that the town administrator (town manager) of North Reading listed those items as part of his agenda for the April 3 meeting.

process and the new plant will be built on the site. Also to be partly dismantled will be the original Browns Crossing pumping station, now over 60 years old.

The engineers estimate the total cost will be about $6.4 million. The state, they say, will pay about 50 percent. The town will need 20 year bonds of 8.7 percent for $3.7 million.

They believe there will be a two cent increase in water charges per 100 gallons, delivered to the homes of Wilmington, for the construction of the new purification station.

Chimney
fire

There was a chimney fire at the home of George Barboza on Roosevelt Road, Wilmington. There was damage to the wall near the chimney and fire fighters had to dig quite a bit to get at the fire in the wall. Engines 2 and 5 and the ladder and the Chief and Deputy were at the scene.

Complicating matters was a large brush fire near Butters Row and two mutual aid runs to Reading and Woburn. At the Butters Row fire Wilmington had Eng. 1 and 3 and Reading Eng. 2, N. Reading Eng. 4, Tewksbury Eng. 2, Burlington Eng. 1 and a State Forestry truck. Andover was covering the station for Wilmington.

Sewer would serve WHA and condos

Steve Stapinski and Jim DeCarolis told the Wilmington Sewer and Water Commissioners last Thursday that they are proposing a sewer service and a water service for the proposed condominiums behind the Fred Roberts home on Burlington Avenue.

Stapinski is a civil engineer from Andover. DeCarolis, who lives in Tewksbury, bought the land behind the Roberts estate nearly two years ago.

The property, DeCarolis told the commissioners, was laid out by Dane Perkins, surveyors and engineers, for 56 house lots, before he bought it. There is excellent gravel soil in the hills and if he were to build single family homes there would be no need to put in a set of sewer mains, he said.

DeCarolis, if he succeeds in getting approval for condominiums, will also construct sewer mains for other points nearby, including the Wilmington Housing Authority. It will be entirely at his own cost, he told the commissioners. The sewer main would go to the WHA property and to other streets westerly from Cedar Street.

The sewer which would go to the condominium site would have one crossing, through the wetlands near cedar Street. The sewer would be constructed, he said, so that some homes on Burlington Avenue would also be served.

The water main which he is proposing to construct would be "looped" to Burlington Avenue, so as to improve the water pressure in the area. There is a 12 inch water main on Cedar Street, which would be extended across the Roberts estate to Burlington Avenue.

At this time there are no plans ready, because DeCarolis is awaiting the results of the annual town meeting in April. He intends to propose the zoning for condominiums at that time. The zoning will be discussed in a planning board meeting shortly, he said.

If DeCarolis is successful at the town meeting, he said, the first thing that he will do is to put in a sewer to the Deming Way project of the Wilmington Housing Authority. The WHA has already received a grant, DeCarolis said, which will be used for the tie-ins.

Stapinski said the sewer would be put in privately, but to the standards of the Wilmington Sewer and Water Commissioners. There will be no cost to the town.

Fire Department wants North Wilmington sub station

by Arlene Surprenant
In a fire department update at Monday night's Board of Selectmen meeting, Fire Chief Daniel Wandell pointed out the continuing need for a sub-station in North Wilmington to cut down on response time to fires and accidents in that area. He also explained a town meeting warrant article to replace the present 26-year-old ladder truck - a truck which has "seen its day" - with a brand new one. Wandell proposed building a sub-station within a three year time frame to house a first line pumper and a pickup truck for smaller fires. The sub-station would have to be large enough to also accommodate a kitchen and sleeping quarters plus a physical fitness room and training and study facilities. And though he "hates the idea of a sub-station, Wandell says, 'personally' because of a loss of control over it, he doesn't see another solution. Selectmen did. Dan Ballou suggested a short term alternative in storing one truck in the highway department building for emergency use in the northern part of town.

Because we're "talking some heavy tax dollars" and urgency here, Ballou said, this might be a viable alternative. He also pointed out that this would go along with the message of Proposition 2½ to "better utilize what we already have and get more out of taxpayers' dollars."

Jim Stewart mentioned a recommendation he had heard to convert the Whitefield School into a more central fire station for all of Wilmington and do away with the idea of a sub-station entirely. He then proposed that Wandell draw up his department's needs for both the short term suggestion made by Ballou and the long term sub-station proposal, something Wandell agreed to do.

Also under discussion was the need for a new ladder truck. The new truck would include a 110 foot ladder which would reach approximately nine stories high. It would be stable, "impressive," and require raising the doors of the fire house to fit it inside. It would also cost in the neighborhood of $245,000 and, since it is looked on as an "investment," it would hopefully last at least 25 years.

At present, bids are going out for the new truck, bids which would include a trade-in value on the old one.

Selectmen questioned trading in older equipment. Since the value is "minimal" Bob Cain said, why not use some of the outdated equipment and vehicles for "backup?"

Rocco DePasquale suggested generating extra funds by selling older equipment to small communities which may not have the money to purchase newer trucks.

Elks Blood Drive Thursday

Do you have an hour this winter to save a life? For more than 20 years, the Tewksbury Elks have sponsored successful community blood drives.

The American Red Cross Blood Services - Northeast Region is encouraging eligible blood donors to again give blood at the next Tewksbury Elks Blood Drive, to be held Thursday, March 28. The blood drive will be held at the Elks Hall on South Street in Tewksbury from 2 to 8 p.m. Area residents are encouraged to attend, and help support the community blood supply.

Slightly less than a pint of blood is donated, which is quickly replaced by the body. After the blood is collected it is shipped to a Red Cross laboratory for testing and storage, and is finally distributed to one or more than 150 hospitals in Massachusetts and Maine," explained Meehan. "Blood is used to help accident victims, cancer patients and people requiring surgery. Afterward, the donor is asked to relax in the canteen for about 15 minutes and is served light refreshments."

Anyone who is in good health, 18 years of age or older (17 years old with parental consent), weighs at least 110 pounds and has never had hepatitis may be eligible to donate blood. For information about the Tewksbury Elks Blood Drive call the Red Cross during business hours at 458-6385.

by Arlene Surprenant. Three Wilmington High students achieved winning status in their competitions at the MASS - DECA State Career Development Conference in Springfield, Ma., March 17-19. Sonja Marie Carlson, president of Wilmington High's DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America) Club, copped a second place trophy for her event. She had to write a nine page Entrepreneurship - Participating Event Report in order to qualify. Carlson is now eligible for the national competition to be held in San Francisco from April 29 to May 6.

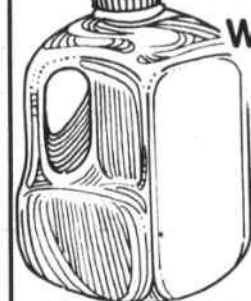

Two seniors, Tracy Dalton and Susan Carpenter, placed in the top 10 in one of their exams, thus earning them the State Achievement award in the area of service station retailing.

"This is really a feather in their caps," said distributive education teacher Mary Thiel, as this is a "relatively new field" for women this year.

According to Thiel, this is Wilmington High's first year in competition. And to have a second place winner and two students receive achievement status, their first year, is "almost unheard of."

To be eligible for state competition, participants had to be winners in the district competition. Wilmington High had 10

Wildcats can rebound from 1-19 season

Anytime a team finishes its season at 1-19 and fails to win a conference game, there is reason to assume that the future is not at all promising.

That is not the case in Wilmington, where first year boys' varsity basketball coach Dave Orndorff has every reason to believe that his 1-19 1984-85 Wildcats will make great strides behind the players developing at the junior varsity and freshman levels.

When he realized that this would not be even close to a break even campaign about midway through the season, Orndorff decided to go with two juniors, one sophomore, one freshman and a senior in his Wildcat lineup. The move paid off in much improved play throughout the second half of the season.

"The second time around the league we improved against every team that we played," noted Orndorff.

The highlight of the Wilmington season came when the Wildcats almost ended Tewksbury's tourney hopes a week early when they took the Redmen into overtime before losing.

Orndorff is looking for his Wildcats to play .500 basketball next season before hopefully making a legitimate run at a tournament berth two years down the road.

It is worth noting that the Wildcats cracked the tournament in 1983 just two years after suffering through a one victory season.

That 1983 team worked hard at the game for two summers before becoming the first WHS basketball squad to make the tournament in over 20 years. This Wilmington team is capable of the same rebound if they work hard and can find some outside courts for that valuable summer play.

Orndorff was pleased with the play of Mike Lombard, who played in just seven full games and averaged 13.7 points over that period.

Junior forward Chris Parr is "a real gamer" according to his coach. Parr hit for a 9.0 average and was Wilmington's representative in the annual Merrimack Valley Conference All-Star Game. Lombard grabbed 92 rebounds in his limited appearances while Parr was next around the boards with 91.

Other promising Wilmington players were junior guard Russ Lydon (99 points, 5.5) and 6'2" sophomore forward Bob DeSantis (83 points, 4.9).

Other players contributing to the Wildcat rebuilding program were Hamilton (74, 3.7), center Mike Buckley (119, 6.6), Brian Wetzler (68, 3.4), Chris Lydon (21, 1.2), senior forward Bill O'Donnell (98, 4.9), Eric Torell (35, 1.9), Johnson (37, 2.5), Mike Woods (24, 1.3) and Carroll (20, 1.3).

Now those final statistics may not be earth shattering, but basketball scoring stats are often overrated.

What is important now is the improvement of the Wilmington underclassmen. This team could point itself in the right direction even after a 1-19 season.

Scott and John DeVivo in international competition Tewksbury High School wrestlers Scott and John DeVivo have been selected to compete with the USA-Massachusetts team that will be hosting six West German teams during the first two weeks of April.

The six teams will compete at six different locations throughout Massachusetts. Seventy-five high school matmen have been named to the Massachusetts squad.

Wildcats overpower Danvers, 42-21

The Wilmington eighth grade travel team continued its participation in a basketball tournament held at Salem State College.

In a 42-21 quarterfinals victory played Saturday morning, the young Wildcats overpowered Danvers with strong defense and unstoppable offense.

High scorer for the locals was Stephen Hanifan with 14 points, followed by Jamie Rocichaud with nine, Jeff Bowen, six; Mark Bobek, five; Ronnie Pennie four and Brian Pupa and Chris Riccio each hitting for two.

The hustle of Mark Palmisano, Michael Buonopane, Neil Pentinen and Sean Colclough also contributed to this team victory.

Hitting for 11 points for the Wildcats was Stephen Hanifan, followed by Jeff Bowen with six, Mark Palmisano three and Ronnie Pennie, with Jamie Robichaud and Mark Bobek each sinking two.

The team will now prepare for its' participation in a tournament scheduled in several weeks at Merrimack College.

Wildcats gain experience

Improvements are being made behind the town hall including the installation of Rotary Club donated playground equipment. Now is the time to have young teens fill out volunteer questionnaires for valuable summer opportunities. This is extremely rewarding to the helpers and the Rec. Dept. Got an idea? Got a recreational Chris Riccio, Joey Mahoney, Scott Tuxbury, Jamey Robichaud and Mark Bobek to control the backboards.

Wilmington emerged the victor, 42-34. Robichaud went to the hoop for 18 points, followed by Bobek, who added nine. Teammates Riccio and Medberry each sank three baskets for six points, with Mahoney, George and McFarland hitting one point each from the foul line.

The second round for the Wildcats was set for March 25 at 7:45 p.m. at the North Reading Junior High School.

The Rams had numerous heroes, including defenseman Kevin Lambert, goalie Dan Shea and Ron Outridge, who scored the overtime game winner against Hudson. Outridge also scored the game winner in the 3-1 tourney win over Northeast Regional.

The Tech hoopsters carried title game frustration to the max this year when they lost their third consecutive Division III championship contest.

The Rams fell 71-51 to a powerful Umana Tech squad. The previous two seasons Tech fell to Swampscott (70-57) and Bishop Fenwick (53-42). Those defeats fail to diminish the 60-7 Tech roundball record over the past three seasons.

All-time Tech leading scorer Brian Bouthillette, center Tony Melton and forward Mike McLaughlin were three very important cogs in the 1984-85 Shawsheen Tech wheel.

Lombardi calls it quits

Tewksbury Pop Warner Director Robert Lombardi has resigned following a season of unprecedented turmoil and frustration not only for Lombardi, but for the once-proud Tewksbury Pop Warner program as well.

Recently Lombardi submitted his letter of resignation to both the board of selectmen and recreation commission.

In his letter to Paul Sullivan, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, Lombardi wrote: "I would like to take this opportunity to thank the board members who supported me my endeavor to bring some dignity back to the football program in the town."

"I have seen a year of frustration and disappointment, time and time again. This I feel has permanently scarred the program and has definitely jeopardized the credibility of many a person."

"I made every effort to point out that all we wanted was to be treated fairly as others are in other programs. The negative publicity has not only hurt the program but has also affected the town because of the obvious closed-mindedness of some to the true cause."

Now the recreation commission must appoint a new director of Pop Warner. Round and round this program goes. Hopefully next season it will be on the road to recovery, with more athletic and less political input.

Redevelopment Authority seeks new project

The Wilmington Redevelopment Authority (WRA) proposes to turn its attention to the Main Street and Lowell Street areas of Wilmington, from the Reading and Woburn lines to the Tewksbury town line.

Chairman Jay Donovan explained the WRA's plans to members and guests of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce Tuesday morning at a breakfast at Stelio's Restaurant.

Nineteen years ago, when the authority was formed by the town meeting it took over 40 acres of a veritable wasteland, land with no known owners, which was paying the town a slight bit over $500 a year in taxes. That area is now Jewel Drive, with half a dozen firms which are employing hundreds of people, and paying taxes to the town every year.

The WRA is practically finished with the work at Jewel Drive. It has repaid the town all the money which was borrowed and all its bills are paid.

The WRA borrowed $180 thousand to accomplish its work and paid back to the town $226,000, a profit of approximately $45,000.

Now it wants to devote its efforts to the betterment of the areas along Main Street and Lowell Street.

The WRA would be able to do this through the establishment of a CARD district, under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Working closely with state authorities, it can establish and renew existing business centers, but not new shopping centers. The work must be done in conformity and with the agreement of the planning board, Donovan said.

"In concept we look forward to the improvement of Route 129, and we hope to be ready when they (state DPW, Ed.) come to Wilmington."

It is very important, Donovan said, to have a local body that can represent the town, and the owners, in relation to the state.

One of the first acts of a CARD designate is the issuance of low interest bonds, for the purposes of assisting in the business development of the area. These bonds can provide low interest bonds to firms which seek to improve their buildings, and their properties.

The assistance can be derived from both the state and federal government, he said. In answer to a question from Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, Donovan said the WRA could devote its efforts to speeding the reconstruction of the Burlington Avenue bridge.

The WRA could have special zoning, Donovan said, and could if it decided to, develop an architectural style for the area. It could also, if it saw fit to do so, possibly establish an Historic District.

The WRA will have an article in the warrant for the annual town meeting, asking that it be given the authority to do this proposed CARD work.

Mrs. Massachusetts

Wilmington mother of four could be Mrs. America

By JIM ROUILLARD

Mrs. Massachusetts has raised four children and a 100-pound mitten-thief.

Yet 27 years ago, when she and her fiancé, Dom Tutela, went for a marriage license, it looked as if the venture might never get off the ground. The clerk at Boston City Hall could find no record of Joan Baldassari's birth.

But it wasn't a bad omen — just a confusion of names — and Joan Baldassari became Mrs. Domenic Tutela.

That title achieved, the slender, auburn-haired Wilmington housewife and mother of four has gone on, more recently, to the Mrs. Massachusetts title for 1985.

If charm alone could garner her the crown, Joan Tutela would have won handily.

But add to that the qualities of warmth, intelligence, poise and an especially lively sense of humor, and the title and crown had to be assured.

Joan was chosen Mrs. Massachusetts in January. She will reign for a year and will compete for the national crown in July, in the Mrs. America Pageant, scheduled, for the first time, for live national television broadcast.

Poet, gardener, grandmother, secretary, dancer, humorist — Mrs. Massachusetts deserves all her titles and more.

Spend an hour in her company and you'll come away with a glow, and smiles that linger, reverberating memories of the laughter shared during your time with her.

Experts hold — with strong evidence — that the institution of the family in America is under siege. Yet Joan Tutela helps provide surety that the family unit will somehow manage to survive the assault.

The perfect fulcrum or epicenter around which five generations revolve, including her own grandchildren and her 95-year-old grandmother or "Noni," Joan provides a persuasive example of the positive elements of loyalty, caring and frankness among the members of her own extended family unit.

The five generations are tightly knit, Joan said. Though they don't all live together, they supply enormous support to one another, she added.

But don't be daunted, Joan cautions, because she does not see herself or any other woman as "Supermom."

"I think our children can talk to us about anything," she added. "But that doesn't mean you're always happy with what your children do. They can embarrass you and you can embarrass them sometimes."

"It doesn't mean your kids don't sometimes drive you nuts. But we're not afraid to discuss things and to say 'I'm sorry.'"

Joan said the idea of entering a pageant was suggested to her by some friends, when she first became a grandmother at the

There is no Tutela family dog at present, though there may be one soon — for the Tutelas and much of Wilmington itself are apparently still recovering from the career of Eric, "the hulk," the family's late 100-pound Norwegian Elkhound, mitten-thief and expert robber of ice cream and bagged lunches.

"He was a rogue," Joan said. "We had him in the days before the Wilmington leash law, and everybody spoiled him. Our milkman would put out milk for him. Our plumber would feed him scraps."

"Don't feed my dog," I'd tell Bill Harrison (the plumber).

"I don't," he'd say.

"Then how come you have a dog dish out when you don't have a dog?"

"Eric would steal mittens and bury them in the snow. He was so well-fed we had to put him on a diet, but he'd steal the kid's lunches, tear them open and

Going shopping for boatshoes

I've come to the conclusion that shopping is the most difficult task in the world. For me, at least. That's not true for everybody, I know. Most of the women I know find shopping, well, an adventure. On the other hand, most of the men I know tell me shopping is a pain in the derriere.

Those same women tell me they think of shopping and spending money as a treat, sort of the way a lot of men regard an afternoon of drinking beer and playing cards at the club. If you interrupt those guys at the club and ask them what they think of spending money on a shopping spree, you're liable to need to visit a dentist.

I will shop only when I absolutely have to, and I hate to spend money on shopping because I always end up spending more than I set out to spend. This stand firmly in place, I'll move on.

My other major gripe about shopping is this: I can never find what I set out to find. Which is probably why I always spend more than I intend to spend. Take the great-looking two-tone Dockside by Sebago that I saw advertised in the New Yorker a couple of weeks ago. I need a new pair of boat shoes, and

SPEED READING COURSE

The Lynnfield Cultural Center is offering a Sanborn Associates speed reading course, beginning Monday, April 8 from 7 to 9 p.m., and continuing every Monday evening until May 6.

In the past most persons taking the course reported they doubled or even tripled their reading speed, with good or improved comprehension, according to instructor Victor Sanborn of Sanborn Associates.

He said, "Adults established in business or the professions will find that this course will substantially reduce the time needed for recreational, informational, or professional reading. In addition, the course will improve the reading skills of high school juniors and seniors, college students and adults returning to college or graduate school."

Mr. Sanborn has conducted this course in various high schools, prep schools and colleges in the Boston area. His consulting assignments include Arthur D. Little's Management Education Institute, both in Cambridge and overseas management and senior editors at the Boston Globe, and the New England Regional Training Center for U.S. Government employees.

Class sessions will be held at the Cultural Center in Lynnfield. Persons interested in the course should call Mrs. Arthur Hunt in Lynnfield. Early registration is encouraged, as class size is limited to 20.

PREPARING FOR MARRIAGE

Beginning marriage is a time of happy anticipation and major decisions. The joining of two lives involves a process of communication and negotiation of all the new responsibilities that a new marriage requires.

In order to assist in this process, The Somers Trust/ Psychological Associates is offering a five session workshop on preparing for marriage. The first session will be held on Wednesday, April 3, and the sessions will continue for the next four consecutive Wednesdays through May 1. All sessions will begin at 7:30 P.M. Topics for discussion include communication training, preventable crisis, exchanging values prior to marriage, sex communication and surviving the differences.

The sessions are held at the offices of the Somers Trust/ Psychological Associates located at 789 Turnpike Street (Rte. 114) (The Willows Professional Park) in North Andover. All sessions are free of charge and any adult may attend.

For more information and to make a reservation contact The Somers Trust, 789 Turnpike Road, North Andover, Ma. 01845. Telephone 688-8004.

CAR BUYER

Northern Essex Community College will present a one-day workshop, "How To Buy A Car," on April 20 from noon to 3:30 p.m. at its Andover extension campus, located at the Greater Lawrence Technical School, and again on May 25 from noon to 3:30 p.m. at the Haverhill campus.

This workshop will help participants avoid paying too much for a car and/or ending up with a "lemon" by detailing every aspect of the car selection and buying process. Learn how to save money, time and aggravation; handle the dealer on your terms; negotiate and recognize the best deal; the pros and cons of buying a new vs. used car, of buying used from dealer vs. a private party, and of buying vs. leasing; and how to handle your "trade," financing, warranties, insurance, dealer "prep," rustproofing, repairs, servicing, complaints, etc.

Tuition is $40, plus a $6 registration fee.

Further information can be obtained by contacting Naomi Shertzer, Special Interest Coordinator for the Division of Continuing Education and Community Services at Northern Essex, (617) 374-0721, ext. 245.

BASKETBALL CAMP

The fourth annual North Reading Basketball Camp will be held at North Reading High School from July 22 to August 2. Due to capacity enrollment last summer, the camp will be expanded to two sessions. The first session, from July 22 to July 26, will be for boys entering grades six, seven and eight. The second session, from July 29 to August 2, will be for boys entering grades eight, nine and ten.

The camp will again be under the direction of North Reading High School basketball coach Barry Kipnes. Other members of the staff will include Rich Butterworth of Hamilton-Wenham, Joe Casey of Masconomet, John Doherty of North Reading, Paul Finn of Newburyport, Tom Gallagher of Chelmsford and Barry Humphreys of Greater Lowell. Other coaches will be added to the staff.

The camp day will run from 9:00 A.M. to 3:30 P.M. Heavy emphasis will be placed on fundamentals and all areas of individual play will be covered. The program of instruction includes drill stations, instructional tapes and lectures. Games will be played every day with each camper playing an equal amount of time. Enrollment is limited which will allow for maximum playing time and attention to each camper.

In the past three years campers have attended from Andover, Auburn (NH), Billerica, Chelmsford, Chelsea, Hamilton, Lynn, Lynnfield, Methuen, Newburyport, North Andover, North Reading, Peabody, Saugus, Tewksbury, Wakefield and Wilmington. Many former campers have played on their freshmen, junior varsity and varsity teams.

Tuition for the week is $77.50 which includes a camp t-shirt, certificate of attendance, fundamentals handbook and coach's evaluation. For a brochure or more information, call Barry Kipnes at 664-2471 or write to Barry Kipnes, B-1 Colonial Drive, Andover, Ma. 01810.

devour what was inside. In the summer, Dom used to shell out more money for the ice cream cones Eric would seize from the kids."

Yet like all bullies, Eric was at heart a coward:

"One of our neighbors had a little dog, Spanky, who would intimidate Eric," Joan said. "Here was this hulk, an elkhound, and he was afraid of the pipsqueak Spanky, who would stand up to him and steal his food."

The Tutelas have lived in Wilmington for 22 years, but Joan and Dom grew up in the city, and her memories of her earlier life in Boston's North End include a little bit of guilt and a lot of hard work.

"I always went to Catholic schools," she remembered with a laugh, "and we came from humble beginnings. Sometimes if you went to school with the rare extra nickel your mother had given you for a candy bar or a Devil Dog, the nuns would talk you out of it."

"One of the nuns had a bank on her desk shaped like an African tribesman. When you put your coin in the bank the man's head would go up and down as a thank-you. The nuns made you feel guilty if you kept the nickel for yourself. They'd say: 'We're giving to the missions.'"

But though Joan said she usually yielded to the guilt and went without Devil Dogs, "I used to say 'WE ARE the missions.' We had socks that couldn't stay up. I look at the kids today and think they're lucky they can go out in the winter and play. We couldn't because we didn't have the right clothes for winter wear."

Yet there's no trace of bitterness in Mrs. Massachusetts. She discusses her earlier years with open good cheer, relating how she started work at the age of nine, in a tailor shop, then went on to work in her uncle's bakery in the old West End, and finally to a publishing company at South Station at age 15.

"I arrived at South Station in my school uniform," she said, "and a man with a limp walked up to me and came on like Humphrey Bogart, talking out of the side of his mouth: 'Whadda ya want, kid?'"

"I told him I was applying for a job."

"What can you do?"

"I said I could type, do some bookkeeping, and gave my job history."

"When can you start?" he asked.

"As soon as possible," I said. "O.K. Start right now. A buck an hour. Oh, and when you get a chance, fill out an application."

Joan said she earned $70 that week, working "part-time" after school and on the weekend. When she brought her pay home, her father kidded her that she had earned more than he.

"We dream, — it is good we are dreaming."

— Emily Dickinson

Joan, who said she loves to read, and write, poetry — with Emily Dickinson a particular favorite — is an eclectic, a grower, a bloomer. It seems certain that she will not rest without striving and making new discoveries each day.

Though opera is popular among many Italians, Joan said she was never exposed to it when she was younger, but she's coming to love it now, and she thinks the variety of life will never cease to charm her.

She keeps her slim shape through aerobic dancing, which she also loves, and though she has always been in charge of flower-gardening at the Tutelas' School Street home, it was only last fall that the couple finally planted their first spring-bulb garden. Now, they are eagerly watching the growth of the crocus-leaves first spiky shoots, and Dom is "considering" his first vegetable garden this spring.

Joan's interests and energies exemplify humanism, and Mrs. Massachusetts 1985 stands as an affirmation of man, woman, family — and pet — and their joint capabilities, applying her own talents to every-day 20th-century tasks: raising a family, working at her husband's engineering firm, and creating a circle of warmth and humor.

Only one of Joan's four children, Marlene, 16, remains in the nest. The other three, Tami Dristilaris, 25, of Lowell, Karen Reinhart, 24, of North Andover, and Alfred, 22, of Dracut, are all married, with children of their own. Joan has five grandchildren and two more en route.

As for another family dog, Mrs. Massachusetts said she is eyeing a bichon frise, a French toy breed, which she describes as "a little white puff I can put in a basket and take to work with me," trusting that there'll be no more bullies, hulks, or mitten-thieves, in the Tutela household at least.

Woodchips

ANTHONY MANCONI

'One of the illusions of life is that the present is not the critical, decisive and important time of our lives. Write it in your hearts that, now, this very hour, this present day is the best time of the year. No one owns the day if he or she allows it to be invaded by 'worry, problems and anxiety.' So finish each day and be done with it! If you didn't do your best, then by all means strive to do better tomorrow.'

While mailing a letter at the Woburn Post Office, I asked a lady who was doing the same if she read my column in the Middlesex East Supplement. I don't know how she guessed it, but she said, "Do you write that 'crazy Woodchips column?" Well, I was going to say that I didn't after that 'compliment' but I owned up and said that I did.

"I read it every week," she said, "but I can't make you out — first you say something beautiful, touching and serious — then you 'whack' your readers with a joke, pun or quip."

I thanked the lady after I explained that is precisely the reason for Woodchips. It should help the readers see the humorous side of a situation, problem and condition. Before she left she said, "I'm sorry I called your column 'crazy,' but I do admit I love it."

No problem, lady, my Navy psychiatrist told me years ago that I'm crazy. I demanded a second opinion and he shouted, "Okay, you're 'ugly,' too!" "Is that so?" I exclaimed. "You look like you 'posed' for the picture on the 'iodine bottle.'"

I have never met a young man with more 'personality, enthusiasm and drive' than Walter Surritt of Tewksbury. He is attending Merrimack College and will graduate this May. I predict a great future for this happy, always-smiling courier of good will. Walter, I'm proud of you because you represent to me the very best — for you and the many like you insure that America will be forever the greatest nation in the world.

I love all the sisters of St. Joseph because my late aunt was one. These wonderful ladies dedicate their lives to the teaching of our children. I remember asking my aunt if wearing (what I thought was) a cumbersome habit was unbearable during the summer months. She smiled and said, "The torrid heat of the day is controlled by 'air conditioning,' the mind with 'prayer.'"

On a rare visit to our home, we decided to walk to church, and seeing a raggedy-looking gentleman standing on a corner my aunt said to me, "Here, give this to that 'poor soul,' tell him that I said 'don't despair' and that I'll pray."

The next morning, bright and early, I answered the door-bell and there was the pitiful looking man of the day before. "Good morning," was his cheerful greeting. Then, handing me an envelope he said, "'Don't despair' came in and paid 20-1." I asked Vinny Harrington, president of the 'Sons of Erin,' if I could join his wonderful organization. Vinny replied, "Because you're only half Irish, you must promise to turn 'green' on St. Paddy's Day."

That reminds me of the wonderful story Dan MacMasters told me: Dennis O'Riley and his crew, who were working at building the railroad to the Golden Gate in California, were whooping it up in a saloon on St. Patrick's Day. The gang decided to have a little fun with a little guy, Howie Murphy, by going outside and painting his horse 'green.'

When Howie went out to unhitch his horse and saw what someone did, he turned, plowed through the swinging doors and shouted, "Okay, who is the wise-guy that painted my horse green?"

Six-foot-four Tommy Ahern walked over, and looking down at little Howie, bellowed, "I did! What about it?" Howie craned his neck and, looking up at Tommy, meekly said, "Oh, nothing, I just thought I'd come back and tell you that the first coat is dry."

Woodchips welcomes Susan Parker to the world of real estate agents. Susan is from Tewksbury, and by virtue of her sales of over $4 million, she has been enrolled into the Presidents Club.

The Wilmington Company of Minutemen installed new officers. They are Capt. Stu Neilson, Lt. Marshall Bishop, Adjutant Sgt. Dan Lyon and Sgt. Peter Newman. My two dear friends, Frank Mazzoni of Wilmington and Joseph Foley of Tewksbury, were drummed out of that dedicated minuteman organization for being an hour late at a general muster.

Wilmington High School seniors Janet Crowley and Kristen Butt were the song leaders at a recent Rotarian meeting.

If some readers wonder why I have so much to say about Wilmington and Tewksbury, well, it's because Mr. Larz Fred Neilson graciously sends me a copy of The Town Crier every week. I hope Lynnfield readers will get the same coverage for I have asked Mr. Albert Sylvia, editor and publisher, to send me the Lynnfield Villager.

Mask / Birdy

Mask Starring Cher, Eric Stoltz, Sam Elliott. Directed by Peter Bogdanovich. Written by Anna Hamilton Phelan. Produced by Martin Starger. Rated PG-13 (profanity).

It is apparent from the opening credits of "Mask" that director Peter Bogdanovich has done something different. Although the material is inherently sentimental, this is not going to be a manipulative, pull-out-all-the-stops tear-jerker. To the tunes of Bob Seger, we see a young boy dressing from a disease that causes hideous facial disfigurement, and Bogdanovich makes no attempt to veil it until he can shock the audience. This straight-forward attitude keeps "Mask" from becoming the usual suffering story of a handicapped person overcoming incredible odds.

Based on a true story, Rocky Dennis manages to teach others to look past his handicap, and Bogdanovich conveys this without drowning us in saccharin. As a matter of fact, it is when Stoltz is on the screen that we are treated to fine drama interlaced with humor, but it is his mother's biker comrades that are given the candy-coated treatment. The boy's mom, Rusty Dennis (Cher), has managed to surround herself with bikers that are more the fairy godfather types than Hell's Angels. Her boyfriend (Sam Elliott) does little more than smirk into the camera and looks like a plastic bust of the man who would walk a mile for a Camel cigarette. Another biker looks tough, but has a heart of gold, as well as a stuttering problem, which is intended to make him more human. Come on.

Movie buffs will want to note that the pretty blind girl who falls in love with Rocky is Bruce Dern's daughter, Laura Dern, and yes, that is Harry Carey Jr., director Alan Parker threw in quite a few neat little camera tricks to help visualize the freedom of flying.

Mathew Modine plays the title role of a young man obsessed with birds, who is really set off-balance by his experiences in the Viet Nam War. His buddy, played with surprising dexterity by Nicholas Cage, is having his own problems coping with the after-effects of the war, as well as trying to draw Birdy out of the catatonic state he has placed himself in to escape from a world he does not like.

It is during the flashbacks to the boys' life in the '50s that Parker seems the most comfortable. These scenes are whimsical, and the atmosphere is true to the decade. We watch as Birdy's fascination with our feathered friends grows into an obsession, and as Al, Cage's character, initially accepts his friend's eccentricities with trust and loyalty. There are very few films that dissect a friendship, they just simply tell us the characters are friends. But Parker, and screenwriters Sandy Kroopf and Jack Behr, point out the flaws and strengths of the characters that help to bind them together.

Where the film has less impact is in the hospital setting after Birdy is wounded. The intense psychological probing and confinement to one, dreary room becomes a bit wearisome. However, since the overall picture is so compelling, this is indeed small pickin's. The ending is also a finer point of the film because it is not what you are expecting, and brings a little needed laughter after several troubled scenes. When you come right down to it, however, it is Modine's anguished performance and Cage's metamorphosis from a beguiling, naive teen to a world-weary adult that makes "Birdy" an intriguing film.

a veteran of westerns, as Red, the oldest biker in the pack.

Cher, as the no-nonsense woman with a drug problem, proves in Mask that she can hold her own in a leading role. She has already proved her worth in supporting roles in "Silkwood" and "Come Back to the Five and Dime, Jimmy Dean, Jimmy Dean," but she is really on her own here, and surprises us all by giving a wrenching, earthy performance.

Birdy Starring Mathew Modine, Nicolas Cage. Directed by Alan Parker. Screenplay by Sandy Kroopf, Jack Behr. Produced by Alan Marshall. Based upon the novel by William Wharton. Rated R (profanity, violence, simulated sex).

Birds and the Viet Nam War make for strange bedfellows, but they also make for a very interesting film.

Derived from William Wharton's novel, "Birdy," the producers modernized the logistics of the story from World War II to the Viet Nam War, but left the theme of madness intact. Also,

Think of the Army for college tuition funds

The Army is once again proving to be "money in the bank" for those soldiers who want to go to college. New legislation signed by President Reagan on October 19, 1984, now makes it possible to accumulate more than $25,000 for college or vocational school through an Army enlistment.

The program, known as the New GI Bill, when combined with a New Army College Fund educational benefit for training in one of a number of critical Army skills, will give Army enlistees access to educational benefits authorized by the new law. The new program is available to Army enlistees after July 1, 1985.

The feature unique to the Army is a series of educational benefits which range from $8,000 for a two-year enlistment to $14,400 for a four-year tour of duty. It is available to recruits who train in critical job areas such as Pershing Missile Crew Member, Metal Worker, Food Service Specialist or Power Generation Equipment Repairer. The special Army benefits are added on top of the GI Bill benefits which are offered by all services.

Based on a four-year term, an Army enlistee can leave the service with $25,200 for college - a $1,200 personal contribution, a $9,600 government contribution, and the special Army educational benefits of $14,400. The total package figures to a ratio of 20 government dollars to each dollar contributed personally. For a three-year enlistment the total benefit can be $22,800, while a two-year enlistee can accumulate up to $17,000 for college.

Money is paid out to veterans on a monthly basis for 36 academic months. The rate depends upon the veteran's matriculation status, whether a full or part-time student. The veteran attending college or vocational school full-time student with a three-year enlistment receives $633.33 each month, while the full-time student with a two-year enlistment receives $472.22 a month.

According to Col. Peter S. Hoffmann, Commander of the United States Army Recruiting Battalion in Boston, the New GI Bill is well constructed. "On every level, dollar for dollar, there is more money available," says Hoffmann. "Enlistees contribute a smaller portion of their salaries than in the past, and there are larger government contributions."

One possible arrangement makes the Army college aid program particularly attractive. The Army is the only branch of the military with a two-year enlistment, and individuals who have completed two years of college can join the Army for two years and accumulate $21,000 toward their next two years of education. The program is known as "2+2."

The Army also offers a college aid plan to those who join the Army Reserve. After certain qualifications are met, Reservists can collect a maximum entitlement of $5,040, paid in monthly installments of up to $140 a month. Payment rates are based on academic enrollment status. This stipend is also paid for 36 full academic months.

With the new college aid program, total benefits to the veteran are greater than in past programs. Individual contributions have decreased more than 50 percent. "The combination of more available government and Army money and smaller personal contributions is bound to make the program a big hit," says Hoffmann.

According to Hoffman, the New GI Bill Plus New Army College Fund, combined with valuable skill training programs available in the Army, will help obtain the quality recruits the Army needs to face the future.

"Because of the increasingly technical demands of today's Army, it is important that we continue to attract quality recruits," Hoffmann says.

"I think this is an outstanding program for the enlistee," Hoffmann says. "The available money combined with the opportunity to gain experience from our skill training programs certainly makes an Army enlistment something on which today's youth can build their future."

'Spirit Line' cuts State government red tape

Massachusetts business people are getting quick answers to questions involving state government through the use of The Spirit Line, a time-saving telephone service that eliminated multiple calls to various state agencies, bureaus and departments.

The Spirit Line is a direct, toll-free hot line to the Massachusetts Department of Commerce's headquarters in Boston that cuts through red tape and gets quick results.

Simple questions get an immediate answer. Complex inquiries which may require research of consultation with other state agencies are assigned to a member of the Spirit Line staff who works directly with the individual or firm seeking assistance until the problem is resolved.

The Massachusetts Spirit Line service is available to businesses of all sizes from one-person operations to high employment industries. The toll-free number to call is: 1-800-632-8181.

Coupon/Refund Convention in Reading, March 30

Have you ever found yourself in a grocery store checkout wondering how a "coupon shopper" had just saved more money than she spent? With today's economy and the struggle to stretch supermarket dollars, refunders and refunding are becoming more familiar.

Beginners and skilled refunders and coupon clippers can pick up some new tips and some new offers at the Annual Eastern Massachusetts Refunders Convention. This year's event will be March 30 in Reading. The convention includes a workshop for beginners and trading for novices and experienced refunders.

Refunders will share their tips, experiences and knowledge during the day long event. Everyone will receive copies of refunding bulletins to take home and put to immediate use. There will be raffles, and door prizes for all.

The convention will run from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, March 30, at Austin Prep School, 101 Willow St., Reading. A $6 registration and reservation fee includes the day's events, coffee, cold drink, morning doughnuts and afternoon refreshments. Participants can bring their own lunches, or register for a salad bar lunch or spaghetti and meatballs. The cost for lunch is $2.50.

For additional information or to obtain a registration form for the convention, send a self addressed, stamped, envelope to Brenda VanHorn, 53 Mt. Vernon St., Reading, MA 01867. Advance registration is required to guarantee a seat.

To reach the event, take exit 12 off Rt. 93, turn right at the first light to the Austin Prep School.

Many people enjoy watching their weekly deductions come off their food bill. To some refunders, refunding is just a hobby that pays, to others it's becoming a necessity for household budgets. Everyone wants to save money at the checkout but not everyone knows how to refund.

A "Refund" is an incentive given to the consumer by the manufacturer for buying certain products. This incentive is usually a cash refund, a "free" food coupon or cents off coupons for future purchases.

Refunding is the shopping system of regularly turning boxtops, labels and specified proof of purchases into cash. Refunders receive savings on items that they buy regularly.

Savings on fresh meat, milk, eggs, bread, produce and many other fresh items are also refund related. There are offers on new products, but more offers are on products that you are currently buying weekly. Refunders save money and do not buy products they don't normally use.

During recent years, refunds have become an increasingly popular way for manufacturers to attract attention to their products and keep the consumer using the same product.

Refunding has its work. Like any hobby, it takes time, but no money. Organization and a system are necessary. Refunders subscribe to monthly publications called "refund bulletins." Bulletins include many helpful items. They list hundreds of new offers monthly, and addresses to write for a form that you have not obtained. Forms are usually found in the grocery store or in newspapers.

If the offer requires an "official" refund form you cannot send for the offer unless you have the form. Do not write directly to the manufacturer sponsoring the promotion as they usually will not mail you the form.

Youth orchestra to appear in Stoneham

Members of the Greater Stoneham Community Concerts are looking forward to a great musical treat in the return engagement of the New England Youth Ensemble, invited back by popular demand after their remarkable concert in this North Suburban area in 1981. The Ensemble will appear in concert at the Stoneham High School at 3 p.m. on Sunday, March 31. The school is just out of Stoneham Square at 149 Franklin St.

Attendance at Community Concerts is by Season Membership card, but interested patrons are urged to contact Mrs. Robert Dearth of Stoneham, membership chairman, at 438-9232, for details of the annual concert series, which always includes a wide variety of musical and dance programs by professional performers.

The New England Youth Ensemble, organized 16 years ago by its director, Dr. Virginia-Gene Rittenhouse, is a group of talented teenage musicians dedicated to music. The Ensemble consists of about half of a symphony orchestra, with solid representation of strings, woodwinds, brasses and percussion, and comprised of versatile young performers whose average age is 17, a number of whom are first-prize winners in various competitions.

As a result, a considerable number of the group serve as soloists as well as Ensemble members, thus adding interest and variety to the program. Everywhere the Ensemble performs, its appearances are greeted with warm enthusiasm by audiences young and old as it shares enjoyment of the world's great music with its listeners.

Numbers for each concert are selected from both the sacred and secular repertoires and encompass compositions ranging from Bach, Corelli, Frescobaldi, Handel, and Mendelssohn, to Copland, Franck, Haydn, Mozart, Schubert, Stravinsky, Strauss, Sibelius, and Tchaikowsky.

Soon after its founding in 1969, the Ensemble commenced extensive tours throughout the United States and Canada with engagements that included the Riverside Church, New York; the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C.; the University of Hartford and the National Shrine Catholic University, Washington, D.C.

In 1973, the Ensemble made the first of its many successful tours of Europe, performing in Iceland, Scotland, London, and climaxing in a performance at the world-famous music center of Fontainebleau, France, by special invitation of Made-moiselle Nadia Boulanger.

The following year the Ensemble was chosen by the Friendship Ambassadors organization of New York to make a three week tour of Poland for the promotion of good will and understanding between the youth of America and the countries of Eastern Europe. During this tour, the Ensemble presented seventeen concerts in the cathedrals and concert halls of Poland, and so great was the response that the Ensemble was invited to return in 1975 for a second tour. The highlight of this tour was the invitation to perform for the State dinner given by President Ford to the Premier of Poland at the Vilanow Palace in Warsaw.

Since that time the Ensemble has continued to tour throughout the United States, Canada, West Indies, Europe and Israel with great success. Cathedral performances have included: St. Patricks, New York; Notre Dame, Paris; Com Cathedral in Salzburg; Coventry Cathedral, England; and St. Peter-St. Paul, Philadelphia.

Major concert engagements have been: Ambassador College, California; Radio City Music Hall, New York; Disneyland, California; Musical Fund of Philadelphia Concert Series; International Youth

Music Festival of Vienna. The Ensemble has appeared under the Community Concert Division of Columbia Artists of New York.

The Ensemble has appeared on the Good Day Show, Channel 5 TV Boston, as well as on the network TV from Memphis; on the classical Radio station of Philadelphia and recently on Nationwide TV from the Crystal Cathedral, Los Angeles, where they were invited for a return engagement.

In August 1976, the Ensemble was invited to be the first musical organization to enter the Soviet Union under the auspices of Friendship Ambassadors. The acclaim accorded their concerts by the young audiences in Moscow, Riga, and Leningrad was extraordinary.

The concert at the Palace of Culture in Moscow was taped and rebroadcast throughout the Soviet Union by Radio Moscow while the Associated Press carried the story of their success in the leading newspapers of the United States.

Russian officials called the tour a "triumph" and the performance and deportment of these young American musicians an unexpected "challenge" to the youth of the Soviet Union.

During the summer of 1984 the Ensemble made a four week tour of Europe and the British Isles. They appeared at the Monteverdi Conservatory Concert Hall in Bolzano, Italy; St. Mark's Cathedral in Venice, Italy; at the Dom Cathedral (Haydn's own church) in Eisenstadt, Austria; at the Chartres Cathedral in Paris, France; at the Coventry Cathedral in Coventry, England; and in the Great Hall at Exeter University in Exeter, England; as well as other great halls and areas.

What a wonderful musical treat to have this fine group of outstanding young people appear in Stoneham under the auspices of Greater Stoneham Community Concerts!

The Director, Virginia-Gene Rittenhouse, violinist, pianist, composer, and conductor, has appeared as recitalist as well as soloist with orchestras throughout the United States, Canada, South Africa, Europe, Japan, and the West Indies.

She has won numerous musical awards, and is a Fellow of Trinity College, London. She has to her credit several compositions, including the "Jamaican Suite for Violin and Piano," and been awarded prizes and commendations by New York and London critics. She is on the faculty for the Thayer Conservatory of Atlantic Union College. Since its founding in 1969, she has been the Director of the New England Youth Ensemble.

NEMH knows
it's tough

The battle to get in shape is difficult enough without the discouragement of working out next to someone who's already won the war between the weights. For that reason, New England Memorial Hospital's Health Education department offers several kinds of fitness programs.

"We have programs for adults who are completely out of shape, programs for kids and for the young and healthy," says Health Education Director Randy Jewell. "With the quality of health professionals who conduct our programs, we can take almost anyone, evaluate them individually and get them started in a safe and sensible exercise program."

Most of the fitness programs at NEMH begin the week of April 8. The Aerobic Dance and Exercise course is the most strenuous, while Exercise for Health is the least strenuous. Beginner's Jogging is an eight-week course that will help start you running right. A small fee is charged for each program.

NEMH also offers a specially designed fitness evaluation which includes a step test, lab work and a computerized life-style analysis which are recommended for anyone wishing to begin an exercise program.

Also this spring, keep your eyes open for the "new and improved" Health Fair in the Stoneham Town Hall, scheduled for Thursday, May 9. This year's theme is "Fitness for Everyone."

"It's our written goal," says Jewell, "to help everyone in this community reach their highest level of health so they can achieve their potential and get more out of life."

Anyone interested in receiving more information about the Health Education programs should call extension 665-1740, ext. 426.

$1,000 prize offered in "Best filler" contest

Cottage Press, the Englewood Cliffs, N.J. publisher, is offering a first prize of $1,000 in a national contest to find the best filler for its new book "Fillers: All the News That Fits."

Fillers are the short articles, generally less than 150 words in length, that are used to fill small spaces in magazines and newspapers. The subject matter can be of local, national or international interest.

Cottage Press is looking for offbeat or humorous shorts of the "man bites dog" variety. Examples of material already selected for the book from articles published as fillers around the country include:
The Louisiana man described as "the most inept counterfeiter" because he cut off the four corners of genuine $20 bills and pasted them on $1 bills.

The New York woman whose suicide leap from the Empire State Building was foiled by a gust of wind that blew her back onto the building.

The New Jersey home that was hit by a 50-pound chunk of ice and frozen excrement that fell from a passing plane.

The Kansas town that has an ordinance against sauntering.

The top cash prize of $1,000 will be awarded to the person who submits the best newspaper or magazine filler article as chosen by the book's editors. Cottage Press will also pay $25 for each submitted article that is included in the book. The editors expect to pick at least 150 of the articles sent in.

To enter the contest, participants should send the actual magazine or newspaper article citing the name and date of the publication. Entries should also include the participant's complete name and mailing address. The material should be sent to Cottage Press, P.O. Box 1265, Englewood Cliffs, N.J. 07632.

The deadline for entries is July 31, 1985. The winners will be selected and notified by September 30, 1985. The decisions of the editors will be final. The book will be published in November.

Will your house be for sale...or on sale?

Carlson Real estate will help sell your house at the right price. For each seller, Carlson prepares a Comparative Market Analysis, comparing your home with similar homes currently offered balanced against market trends. Since we sell more property, our base of comparison is wider, our analyses more thorough — and, therefore, our prices reflect a truer market value.

Visit or call any one of Carlson Real Estate's 16 residential offices and receive a free Home Seller's Guide.

This 28-page booklet is a complete guide to home selling; full of hints, tips, hard facts and honest answers to tough questions. Read it... then put your house up for sale — not on sale — with Carlson.

Newburyport showcased

Newburyport is the Commonwealth's smallest incorporated city these days, but it once rivaled Boston as a thriving seaport. The prosperity of that era lives on in the Federalist style mansions, wealthy sea captains built along High Street, showcases for the treasures they imported from 19th century Europe and China.

Single families occupy these imposing, three-story houses, but you can get inside one for a special treat in April. That's when the Morrill Mansion, built in 1806 by Captain William Hoyt and restored as an inn six years ago, becomes a decorator's showhouse. Laura Ashley, Country Curtains, and a host of area decorators have turned each room into a period showpiece for the benefit of Newburyport's Anna Jacques Hospital.

On the first floor, oxblood red laquered walls, stencils, and a marbleized fireplace will transform the library, and Towle Silver, Newburyport's best known industry, will set the dining room table. Decorators have created an afternoon tea room, a child's bedroom, ladies' boudoir, a rataan filled winter porch, family bedrooms, and powder rooms on the second and third floors.

The Newburyport Showhouse will be open from April 8 through April 28. Hours are 10 AM to 3 PM Monday through Saturday, 1 to 4 PM on Sunday and 6 PM to 8 PM on Wednesday and Friday evenings. Tickets are $7 in advance (to reserve tickets, call 462-2808), and $8 at the door, and include light refreshments under a tent in the garden.

On Saturday and Sunday, March 30 and 31, the Massachusetts Orchid Society will present its Eighth Annual Orchid Show. The exhibition will take place at the Lexington Armory, 459 Bedford St., (Rts. 4&225), Lexington.

Each year the show highlights some of the most talented and diverse growers in the Northeast United States. Spectacular displays of 'Phalaenopsis', 'Paphiopedilums', 'Cymbidiums' and 'Miltonias' and their hybrids are to be expected.

Plants and related materials will be for sale at the show and the American Orchid Society movie "The Many Worlds of Orchids" will be shown at frequent intervals. Free cultural workshops will also be held throughout the show hours.

The show will be open to the public from 9 AM to 8 PM on Saturday, and from 10 AM to 5 PM on Sunday.

Visitors welcome

Summer and autumn visitors to Vermont are welcomed at the Crowley Cheese Factory in Healdville - the oldest continuously operating cheese factory in the country. Crowley produces "colby" cheese, a variety of Vermont cheese similar to cheddar.

Factory visitors receive guided tours and explanations of the traditional Crowley cheese-making process, as well as a chance to sample the finished product. Crowley's handmade cheese is highly regarded by cheese connoisseurs. Though available in a few retail stores, most is sold to factory visitors or to mail-order buyers worldwide.

The Crowley Cheese factory is located in the mountain village of Healdville, Vermont. Healdville is 1.5 miles off Vermont Route 103, 20 miles southeast of Rutland, Vermont and five miles north of Ludlow, Vermont. The factory is open Monday through Saturday from 8 AM to 4 PM. There is no admission charge. The best time to see the cheesemaking process is before 2 PM.

From colby cheese in Vermont to The Breakers in Newport, from the beauty of an orchid to a 19th-century showcase, COMING ATTRACTIONS roams New England for the best in things to visit or see. But we can't be everywhere and could your help in discovering events of interest to all. If you know of same, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it. As you can tell, we like to move around.

Drumlin Farm needs you

Spring's warm weather and sunny skies bring increasing numbers of visitors to Drumlin Farm. As a result, this spring and summer we need Farm Interpreters - trained volunteers who will work in our barns, help our farmers, and answer the public's never ending questions about our farm and its animals.

At Drumlin Farm volunteers will meet new people, learn more about farming and farm animals, improve their communication skills, and help the operation of an environmental education center. The volunteer experience also gives students knowledge and skills that they can use when they apply for jobs or admission to college.

An Orientation Workshop has been scheduled for Saturday, March 30th, 1:00-4:00 p.m. at the Nature Center, Drumlin Farm. You will receive a general introduction to the Massachusetts Audubon Society and Drumlin farm, information on the volunteer program, a tour of the farm and information about the barns and animals.

Interested students aged 14 and over should attend this workshop. If you are unable but interested call Elaine Boyer at 259-9500 Tuesday-Friday, 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

April at Collins Center

With one night of country/western music and another evening of classical, the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts in Andover presents music to suit nearly every taste in April. A Night of Country Music on Friday, April 12 at 8 p.m. and the Portland String Quartet on Friday, April 26 at 8 p.m. help to demonstrate the diversity of programming that has made the Collins Center the region's most exciting entertainment producer.

A Night of Country Music features the Doug Dillard Band, and Bill Hall & the Northwind Bluegrass. The Dillard Band includes Ginger Boatwright (formerly of Red, White & Blue) as lead vocalist and guitar, and of course Doug Dillard, the "fingers" behind the banjo music on the soundtrack for Bonnie & Clyde.

Bill Hall and the Northwind Bluegrass, hailing from Rhode Island, delight bluegrass fans with their four-part instrumental harmonies of traditional favorites.

The elegantly crafted and inspirational works of The Portland String Quartet will thrill the air with classical music on Friday, April 26 at 8 p.m. Based in Portland, Maine, the Quartet, known as "America's foremost exponent of contemporary composition," has toured through the United States, Europe and Latin America. This string ensemble (violinists Stephen Kecskemethy and Ronald Lantz, violist Julia Adams, and cellist Paul Ross) has won widespread acclaim for its superb interpretation of the classics.

A Night of Country Music, Friday, April 12 at 8 p.m. Tickets: Adults $8 orchestra and $6 mezzanine; students $4 orchestra and $3 mezzanine. Portland String Quartet Friday, April 26 at 8 p.m. Tickets: Adults $7 orchestra and $6 mezzanine; students $4 orchestra and $3 mezzanine.
